

PARTICIPATING COMMUNITIES

CHRISTIAN

Baptist General Convention
Christian Church in Virginia
Virgina District, Church of the Brethren
The Episcopal Diocese of Virginia
Episcopal Diocese of Southern
Virginia
Episcopal Diocese of Southwestern
Virginia
Metro Washington Synod,
Evangelical Lutheran Church in America
Virginia Synod, Evangelical
Lutheran Church in America
Presbytery of the James
National Capitol Presbytery
Shenandoah Presbytery
Presbytery of Eastern Virginia
Roman Catholic Diocese of Arlington
Potomac Association, United Church of Christ
Holston Conference, United
Methodist Church
Virginia Conference, United
Methodist Church
Religious Society of Friends
Arlington Interfaith Council
Virginia Council of Churches

JEWISH

Jewish Community Council of Greater Washington
Richmond Rabbinic Association

MUSLIM

Virginia Muslim Coalition for Public Affairs

January 25, 2010

To Whom It May Concern:

The Virginia Interfaith Center for Public Policy is committed to making children safe in our communities. We have many programs that reach out through our congregations to support this effort.

We have been pleased to partner with Enough Is Enough (EIE), one of the nation's leading Internet safety organizations, focusing on educating, equipping and empowering adults to protect children online. Enough Is Enough educates parents about the dangers children encounter online through utilizing a multi-media DVD teaching series, workbook, website and other resources that can directly reach the homes of parents across the country. Their state-focused pilot in Virginia was highly successful, and we believe that their approach can be replicated to bring Internet safety education to parents through grassroots efforts and effective communications strategies.

EIE educates parents about the non-technical resources and the technical resources, like parental controls, necessary to provide protection to kids from online predators. We are pleased to be working with EIE to educate parents about how to protect children from online dangers.

Sincerely,

Rev. C. Douglas Smith